

City Schools Retire 19 Teachers, Administrators

Nineteen Los Angeles City School teachers, administrators, and other employees from the Torrance area—after many devoted years of service to the community—will reach the end of their educational careers in June, it was announced by Superintendent of Schools, Jack P. Crowther.

The employees are those who will reach the retirement age, or are taking advantage of early retirement, when the City Schools System ends its '65-'66 school year on June 30.

A LARGE majority of those retiring will be terminating careers of more than 20 years with the schools system. The retirees include teachers, administrators, and non-teaching employees from elementary, junior and senior high schools, junior colleges, adult schools, as well as from administrative centers.

The following are the local personnel retiring. (Years of service are listed in parentheses.)

How to Reconcile a Bank Account will be the subject of a program presented on ABC's "Scope" by Willis Weber, El Camino College business education instructor, on June 15 at 7 a.m.

"Almost everyone makes money," Weber says, "everyone should know how to handle it."

"Most people have difficulty keeping their bank accounts and they don't seem to know where their money has gone or exactly how much they have at any given time," he added.

Weber's presentation will enable a person to know the amount of money he has on hand and will also enable him to check his account with the bank's in case of error.

Weber received his bachelor's degree in accounting and his master's degree in education from USC. During World War II he taught ground school for the air force and was director of the school for a time.

He has taught accounting at El Camino for almost 18 years and was a member of the original faculty staff.

Marine Private Steven R. Gasper, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gasper of 22638 Marjorie Ave., was graduated from Marine recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

O'Leary Says Majority Often Neglected by Current Leaders

"The government is supposed to represent the majority and to give the minority a voice. Today, in many instances, this situation is just the reverse."

Congressional candidate William (Bill) O'Leary, who is seeking the Democratic nomination in the 17th Congressional District, thus summed up one of his platform planks this week.

"Many of our elected officials today are prone to respond to and for pressure groups rather than speak out for the majority," he said.

O'Leary, a member of the Democratic Central Committee, has been critical of what he has called the lack of representation in the district in

Bruno Wants 'Unruh Men' To Speak Up

Challenges Speaker

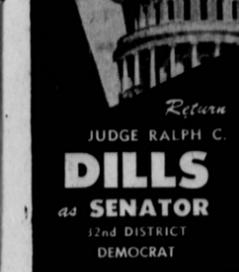

Those candidates for the Senate and Assembly who are being financed "by or through Jesse M. Unruh, Speaker of the Assembly, were challenged this week by 32nd District Senate candidate Joseph C. Bruno to identify themselves before Tuesday's balloting.

Speaking before members of the Carson and Dominguez area Democratic clubs, Bruno said the voters should have a clear-cut choice as to whether they want to be "part and parcel of what may be the biggest power grab in California's political history."

Bruno, a school teacher and former co-chairman of the California Citizens' Committee for Honest Government, charged "that the $200,000 raised at $100 a plate dinner for Unruh last February at the Hollywood Palladium, and heavily attended by the who's who of California Lobbyists, was a fund raiser for this purpose."

Bruno said election of a majority of Unruh backed candidates to the Senate would give the Speaker "complete control of the Legislature."
